1. HISTORY OF CISM SAILING

In 1948, Belgium, Denmark, France, Luxembourg and the Netherlands initiated the process that saw the birth of CISM. A year later in 1949 the 1st World Military Sailing Championships was hosted by France, in Brest. The competition was sailed in the Star Class dinghy and the gold medal was won by Denmark. The silver medal was won by the Netherlands and the United Kingdom took the bronze medal. The 2nd World Military Sailing Championship was hosted by Denmark in Copenhagen and again the Danish Sailors walked away with the Gold Medal.

In 1954 two of CISM Sports disciplines Naval Pentathlon and Sailing were combined and formed a new CISM Sport discipline namely Sea Week. From then through to 2000 Sea Week was presented almost every year. Sweden hosted Sea Week 8 times whilst Italy, Greece and the Netherlands have each hosted this event 4 times. Other countries that have hosted Sea Week include Italy, USA, Argentina and Norway. In 1998 it was determined that the competitor base for Sea Week had grown too big, there were over 300 participants at the events, and it was agreed by the CISM Board of Directors that Sea Week should revert back to being two different sporting disciplines. The last CISM Sea Week Championship was hosted by Sweden in 2000.

In 2001 Canada hosted the first Military World Sailing Championships as Sailing became recognised as one of CISM’s 26 World Sporting Disciplines. Bahrain, Brazil, Denmark, France, India, Italy, Norway, Pakistan, Poland, South Korea, Spain and Qatar have since all hosted World Military Sailing Championships. The jubilee of 50th World Military Sailing Championship will take place on 2018 in Finland.

Sailing was included as a sport in four of the 5 Military World Games that have scheduled by CISM. At the 1999 during the 2nd Military World Games in Croatia, sailing was not included as sport, and Denmark hosted a World Military Sailing Championship instead.

In 2000 Lt Col Diane Hope (CAN) was appointed as the first President of the CISM Sports Committee for Sailing. In 2005, after the 39th World Military Sailing Championships was held in France, Cdr Ditmar Anderson (DEN) succeeded her. He remained the President through to 2010 when he handed over to Cdr Bram Weller (RSA). Brig Gen Hassan Awad (Qatar) was appointed as the fourth President in October 2015.

There has been a World Military Sailing Championships every year since 1949 (with the exception of 20 years) making this sport one of the few sports that holds regular championships. Since 2000 there have been countries representing each of the continents at the championships and the number of countries participating has averaged at 20 per event.
