WORLD
WINTER GAMES

HANDBOOK I

ADMINISTRATIVE

HOST COUNTRY: RUSSIA

1.1 General Status of the Host Country

Russia is vast. Russia is endless. Russia is timeless and eternal. Yet Russia can still surprise. Bounded by 12 seas of the Atlantic, Arctic and Pacific Oceans, the country's 17.1 million km² include one-eighth of the earth's inhabited surface area. In addition to being the largest, the Russian Federation is one of the world's northernmost countries. It encompasses from its borders with Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Belarus, and Ukraine on the west to the Bering Strait in the far northeast and from its borders with Georgia, Azerbaijan, Kazakhstan, Mongolia, and China in the south to the Arctic Ocean in the north.

European Russia, the most densely populated, urbanized, and industrialized region, lies between the Ukraine-Belarus border and the Ural Mountains. Seventy-eight percent of the population lives in this area. Two large industrial cities are located above the Arctic Circle: Murmansk on the Kola Peninsula and Norilsk in Siberia.

Russia is a country of incomparable beauty, variety and extremes, encompassing the snow-capped peaks of the Ural and Caucasus mountains, the seemingly infinite Siberian forests, the broad rivers stretching across the continent and deserts and grasslands of its central steppe. Russia is the land of Lake Baikal - the deepest and purest on Earth - and of the Volga, the longest river in Europe. No other country extends across nine of the earth's twenty-four standard time zones; as Russians in Vladivostok sit down to enjoy their evening family meals, their countrymen in Kaliningrad are rising to greet the sun's morning rays.

1.2 Political Status of the Host Country

Political system of Russia.

Russia is a democratic federal rule-of-law state with the republican form of government. It consists of republics, territories, regions, federal cities, an autonomous region and autonomous areas - equal subjects of the Russian Federation.

Russian is the official language.

The political system established by the Constitution of 1993 provides the president with substantial superiority over other branches of the state. The president is elected for a term of six years by the citizens of the Russian Federation on the basis of general, equal and direct vote by the secret ballot. No-one may hold the office for more than two terms in succession. A candidate for the President of the Russian Federation can be nominated by a political party or by the candidate personally. In the later case the candidate must have an initiative group of 500 supporters.

The Federal Assembly, the Parliament of the Russian Federation, is the supreme legislative body of the Russian Federation. The Federal Assembly consists of two chambers, the Federation Council and the State Duma. The State Duma is elected for a term of five years. It consists of 450 deputies. From 2007 all deputies are elected in proportion to the number of votes cast for the lists of candidates nominated by political parties. The Federation Council consists of two representatives from each Subject of the Federation, one from the representative and one from the executive bodies of the Subject of the Federation.

The Government consists of the Chairman of the Government, Deputy Chairman of the Government and federal ministers. The Chairman is appointed by the president with consent of the State Duma. If the State Duma thrice rejects candidates for the Chairman of the Government nominated by the president, the president appoints a Chairman of the Government, dissolves the State Duma and calls a new election.

The Prosecutor's Office of the Russian Federation is a single centralized system in which lower prosecutors are subordinated to higher prosecutors and the Prosecutor-General. The Prosecutor-General is appointed to the post and relieved from it by the Federation Council on nomination by the President. Prosecutors are appointed by the Prosecutor-General.

1.3. Economic Status of the Host Country

The economy of Russia is a high-income mixed economy with state ownership in strategic areas of the economy. Market reforms of the 1990s privatized much of Russian industry and agriculture, with notable exceptions in the energy and defense-related sectors.

Russia is unusual among the major economies in the way it relies on energy revenues to drive growth. The country has an abundance of natural resources, including oil, natural gas and precious metals, which make up a major share of Russia's exports. As of 2012 oil and gas sector accounted for 16% of the GDP, 52% of federal budget revenues and over 70% of total exports.

Russia has a large and sophisticated arms industry, capable of designing and manufacturing high-tech military equipment, including a fifth-generation fighter jet. The value of Russian arms exports totaled $15.7 billion in 2013—second only to the US. Top military exports from Russia include combat aircraft, air defense systems, ships, submarines. The Russian economy is the sixth largest in the world by PPP.

1.4. Cultural Status of the Host Country

History of culture

In order to understand Russian culture one must realize that it is a unique symbiosis of European and Asian traditions. Russia has part of its roots in European culture where the ideas of goodness, honor, and freedom have similar meaning as in the West. The Mongols, conquered Moscow in 1234 and Kiev in 1240, and controlled Russian lands for over 200 years. That brought Tatar blood into Slavic mix, creating modern Russian nation.

When Moscow liberated itself from the Tartars in 1480, the modern Russian state was born. Distant from Europe, the new state was cut off from Constantinople which in 1453 had fallen to the Muslim Ottoman Turks. The Russian Orthodox Church, isolated from the rest of Christianity, developed independently as a national church.

Modern culture

Living for centuries in a very harsh climate explains the Russians' strength, their ability to endure extreme hardship, and their occasional bleak outlook on life - but only to the non-Russian observer. Russians themselves never consider their life miserable. Hardships also helps develop such abilities as simplifying things (complex mechanisms break in tough climates, think Kalashnikov and other Russian military armament). Russians tend to find way around obstacles.

Russian culture produced a number of world famous artists and writers. Literature would not be the same without Leo Tolstoy, Fyodor Dostoevsky or Joseph (Iosif) Brodsky. Here you can read more about Russian art. Russians consider themselves a well-educated nation. They read a lot of books. They attend theater, Russian ballet is very popular around the world. Russia produces world's top mathematicians and physicists.

Orthodoxy

Russian Orthodoxy, a branch of Christianity, is deeply rooted in Russian culture. The majority of Russians are Christians. Church marriage is not official in Russia.

Russian folklore

Folklore is still very popular in Russian cities and towns. You may have heard about Palekh Art, Russian «basnya» poems and folk songs. Traditions is what keeps Russian Culture unique and alive to this day.

1.5. Sports Policies and Status of the Host Country

Sport has always been one of Russia's top national priorities. Soviet and Russian athletes have always been prominent on the international sporting stage, excelling in Olympic sports and among the top medal winners at the Olympic Games and World Championships.

The Federal Government allocates substantial funds to develop both high performance sports and citizen participation. Federal target programs have been launched to promote sport to the public as a fundamental social activity. The Federal Government allocates substantial funds to develop both high performance sports and citizen participation. Federal target programs have been launched to promote sport to the public as a fundamental social activity. The government strongly believes that healthy lifestyle choices in a variety of sports will lead to a healthier society. At the same time, hosting major international sporting events provides a perfect opportunity to welcome guests from all over the world, share the celebration of sport and youth, and increase the social benefits created by these events.

The success of the bidding campaigns is an extraordinary example of the government's commitment to hosting international sports events: in 2013 Kazan hosted the 27th Summer Universiade, in 2014 the Winter Olympic and Paralympic Games were held in Sochi, in 2015 the FINA World Aquatics Championships and FINA World Masters Championships will take place in Kazan and in 2018 eleven cities of Russia will play host to the FIFA World Cup.

HOST CITY: SOCHI

2. Host City Information

2.1. Introduction to Sochi

A Black sea-resort town and the host city of the 2014 Winter Olympics.

Sochi is unique among larger Russian cities as having some aspects of a subtropical resort. Apart from the scenic Caucasus Mountains, pebble and sand beaches, the city attracts vacation-goers with its subtropical vegetation, numerous parks, monuments, and extravagant Stalinist architecture. It was one of the most popular vacation destinations for Soviet families. About two million people visit Greater Sochi each summer. Weather in the fall and winter is mild, average temperature in November is 12°C.

The city of Sochi, located in Southern Russia, is the longest city in Europe stretching 145km along the shores of the Black Sea. Sochi coastal area is a popular seaside resort, while the less-known Sochi mountain cluster is located an hour's drive from the Black Sea. In recent years, US$12 billion has been invested in the development of Sochi mountain area and that of the surrounding infrastructure in preparation for the 2014 Olympic Winter Games. The Sochi mountain cluster is located at Krasnaya Polyana and half divided: the lower part lies at 560m and the upper part at 960 m above the sea.

Krasnaya Polyana lies at the foot of the Caucasus Mountains, Gornaya Karousel lift-served summit rises to 2,320 m; giving a vertical drop of 1,760 m. From the 2013/14 winter season, the resort will offer 30km of world-class ski slopes (previously, there were only 10km), with an extensive range of pistes varying in difficulty from green to black; 12 chair and gondola lifts, total 10km in length, will carry skiers to the slopes.

2.2. Citizens' support and passion for the Games

In order to successfully prepare and host the 3rd CISM World Winter Games 2017, administrative, financial and legislative support by the central Government, Krasnodar Region government and the City Council of Sochi is essential. If Sochi is selected to be the host for the 3rd CISM World Winter Games 2017, the central Government will provide essential infrastructure support such as transportation network and sports facilities, and furthermore will put in extra support by regulating special laws in order to provide smooth preparations for the Games. Also the sentiment and support of the citizens have sharply increased since the release of plans to host the Games by the Ministry of Defense and Sochi.

2.3. Main Events

Several events of note are held in Sochi including the annual Kinotavr Film Festival, the Sochi Velvet Season Theatre Festival, fashion shows, organ and jazz music festivals, comedy club competitions; the billiards world championships; international cycling races, regattas and Russia's mountain bike championships. The city also holds children's festivals: The Magic of Dance, Kinotavrik and The Magic of Fairy Tales.

It is also the venue of major international symposiums and official meetings. Many official events attended by foreign leaders, politicians, bankers and businesspersons. Also international forums are regularly held in Sochi.

Since 2001, the Sochi International Investment Forum has been an annual event in the city. This is the main investment event in the country, where the most pressing issues of economic development are raised through an open discussion between government officials, the business community and experts. In 2014, Sochi hosted one of the world's largest economic and political forums, the G8 Summit.

With the alpine and Nordic events held at the nearby ski resort of Rosa Khutor in Krasnaya Polyana, Sochi hosted the XXII Olympic Winter Games and XI Paralympic Winter Games in 2014, as well as the Russian Formula 1 Grand Prix from 2014 until at least 2020. It will also be one of the host cities for the 2018 FIFA World Cup.

However, of course, the most significant event are still to come: the 3rd CISM World Winter Games will take place on February 22-28, 2017.

2.4. Krasnodar Region Weather Conditions

Under the Köppen climate classification Krasnodar has a humid subtropical climate.

Winters are cold and damp, with unstable snow cover. The average temperature in January, the area's coldest month, is 1 °C (34 °F). Weather conditions in winter vary greatly. Temperatures can exceed 20 °C (68 °F) for a few days, but temperatures below –20 °C (–4 °F) are not uncommon for Krasnodar as the city is not protected by mountains from cold waves. Summers are typically hot with a July average about 24.1 °C (75.4 °F).

The city receives 735 millimeters (28.9 in) of precipitation annually, fairly spread throughout the year. Extreme storms are rare in the Krasnodar area. Extreme temperatures have ranged from –32.9 to 40.7 °C (–27.2 to 105.3 °F), recorded on January 11, 1940 and July 30, 2000, respectively
